

Searching for Sophia

At one time or another some people wonder if life is worth living. Trent's search for meaning will have you pulling for him until he finds the answer.

A third-generation San Franciscan, Trent Martin had it all a loving wife, a beautiful daughter, a lucrative law firm, a real estate dynasty and political clout with City Hall. Through a heart-breaking turn of events he loses everything, short of losing his sanity. He descends into a pit of complete absence of self until he begins to take notice of people other than himself. Searching for Sophia is a tale as inspiring as Pay it Forward and as riveting and unforgettable as It's a Wonderful Life.

About the author: Barbara Gerdau Drotar's touching short-stories have been published in most San Francisco Bay Area newspapers. She has also been published in Chicken Soup for the Grandmas Soul, and is the recipient of awards in poetry, including The National Library of Poetry.

Barbara lives in San Jose, California with her husband, Dave.
