

Elevating The Depths

Kenny Cartee is compelled to register his opposition of American military forces in Iraq. Performing an act of civil disobedience lands him in prison. While serving time, he questions if difficulties between he and his mother are not his own problems. When released, he returns to his homestead in the Ozark Mountains. After remodeling the old place, he learns the county intends to confiscate it through Eminent Domain Law. Another protest is planned. However, Kenny is involved in a near fatal car accident days before the scheduled event.
